

Supplier supplies items

Customer places orders to seller

Seller checks stocks and agrees to sell if items are available

If not available, the seller contacts the supplier to send more items of that kind and informs customer to hold on for 1 week

Whenever request from seller arrives from supplier, the supplier either agrees or refuses due to stock unavailability

When an item arrives, the supplier informs the customer held up for 1 week

The customer confirms the order, then the item is shipped
